The Industry Scenario

With the rapid strides being made by the Indian engineering industry, demand for seals and gaskets has been growing steadily. User industries have been seeking products that deliver superior performance and meet the increasingly stringent demands of the market. This is giving rise to a rapid growth of opportunities in virtually every industry segment from automotive to pipeline, from railways to pumps, from electronic hardware to medical devices. This growth is further fueled by an increasing public concern for the environment. Manufacturers today see a great incentive to develop new and environmentally responsible products and processes. And modern sealing technology is playing an important role in these initiatives.

As sophisticated manufacturing takes roots in India, so does the demand for modern measuring instruments and test equipment. Manufacturers in the aerospace, automotive, food processing, pharmaceutical and other similar industries live by extremely stringent quality standards. They rely heavily on sophisticated test and measuring equipment. The government's stringent enforcement of health and safety standards as also of pollution control norms, gives rise to a further need for such equipment. As a response to these needs a growing number of test and measuring systems is being offered in India. These products often embody sophisticated new technologies that were unavailable a few short years ago.

After the very successful International Conference LWT 2012, a voluntary group of like-minded professionals was formed to evaluate materials, designs, manufacturing processes and application aspects of Lightweight Technology (LWT). These professionals were drawn from the manufacturing sector, from R&D and from consultancies and have expertise to evaluate and propagate LWT, initially in transportation sector.

The short term objective of this group is to disseminate knowledge of LWT through International conferences, e-technical bulletins and training programmes. Action has already been initiated and substantial progress has been made. In the long term the group plans to coordinate with various stakeholders to facilitate development and implementation of LWT.

The International Exhibition & Conference

This event is being organised in Chennai, India on 4, 5 and 6 December 2014 will bring a sharp focus on emerging technologies in these three areas. Leading industry experts will exhibit their products and present technical papers and interact with visitors to the exhibition and delegates to the conference. The Conference will offer interesting opportunities to industry participants in India to exchange ideas with each other and with international experts.

On behalf of The Adhesives & Sealants Association (TASA), Society For Fluid Sealing (SFS), and Lightweighting Technology (LWT) Group, we invite you to participate as an exhibitor to showcase your products and technologies.
